

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION ACCOUNTING AND AUDITING

CONCENTRATION

Accountants measure the economic activities of an organization. Auditors ensure the integrity of an organization's financial records, statements, and operations.

Accountants and auditors play a vital role in advising companies and individuals on financial matters by organizing, examining, and interpreting financial data. With an understanding of legal and financial procedures, they prepare and analyze the accuracy of financial documents.

UCR Business students with a concentration in accounting and auditing are prepared with essential accounting and auditing tools and skills. Many go on to obtain roles in major accounting firms, including the Big 4: Deloitte, PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC), Ernst & Young (EY), and KPMG.
